DISCOVERY PROJECT

Promotional Toolkit

Thank you for your interest in the PA Humanities Discovery Project! We're excited to tell the first-ever story of the humanities across Pennsylvania and build a more inclusive and connected community for sharing, learning, and advocacy.

We need your help spreading the word and ensuring this survey is as expansive and inclusive as possible. Your assistance is not only appreciated -- it is essential! To make it easier, this toolkit provides sample social media posts, newsletter, blurbs, and materials downloads.

Getting started

1. Review the PA Humanities Discovery Project landing page for full details on the project at PAHumanities.org/Discovery.
2. Assess your network and determine the best ways to share this opportunity as broadly as possible -- one-on-one, newsletters, listservs, email lists, social media, etc.
3. Use the examples in this toolkit as a starting point for customizing content that will best reach your unique network/audience.
4. Connect with PA Humanities on social media and share/like project-related content as it comes out.
5. Share repeatedly with your networks!

Email Subj: Help get the word out about the PA Humanities Discovery Project!

Dear NAME,

I'm reaching out to you personally about the PA Humanities Discovery Project, an effort by PA Humanities and Drexel University to map, network, and celebrate the wonderfully rich statewide humanities landscape. Across Pennsylvania people are building community, making space for new voices, sharing stories, uplifting culture, educating, creatively solving problems, and using other tools of the humanities (even if many wouldn't use that word). This work has been especially critical during the pandemic, keeping people connected and inspired, while encouraging resilience and recovery. I'm helping spread the word about this project's survey so that we can learn more about who these people are, what they do, and how they do it.

We need your help to get the word out!

Who should take this survey? People who work to make their community a better place. They may collect family history, host a book group or story slam, organize festivals, create community murals, develop educational programs, research and produce stories, or use writing for health and wellness. This project seeks to be expansive and inclusive.

The survey only takes about 20 minutes and closes October 31, so we need your help now!

Why should you and people in your network participate?

- Join a movement to give a voice and recognition to the work that you do
- Receive special invitations to network/learn with other participants
- Gain early access to select research results/materials
- Have your work highlighted to a statewide and national audience in a report
- Be an advocate for the interests of the broader humanities community

We can't do this alone! Please share this opportunity and help us tell the first-ever story of the humanities across Pennsylvania. Together we'll build a more inclusive and connected community for sharing and learning.

Sharing is easy! Just use this blurb for email newsletters, social media, etc.:
